CHIHUAHUA CITY TO BE RETAKEN
but one restaurant, which accommodates only 12 people at a time, and sleeping quarters are very scarce.
Senor Pinada, a wealthy Mexican ranch owner, who is temporarily living here, is entertaining Luis Terrazas and members of his family. Senor Terrazas, who is one of the wealthiest men in Mexico, received word Friday that his son, Luis Terrazas, Jr., who was taken from the British consulate in Chihuahua City by the constitutionalists had been executed, but he doubted the truth of the message.
"I have appealed both to the Mexican and American authorities to protect my son and I don't think the rebels would dare harm him," said Terrazas.
Anxiety is felt for Gen. Mercado and the scouts have been sent southward to look for him. Gen. Mercado and Gen. Rojas commanded the rear guard of the troops and have with them about 2,500 troops and a battery of artillery. Rebels under Gen. Herrera pursued Mercado's troops, but the federal generals in Ojinaga believe that the federals could give a good account of themselves.
In Good Spirits.
The federal soldiers were put into better spirits Friday by an announcement that the Mexican government has $20,000 on deposit in El Paso banks, and that it will be used for the payment of the troops.
Good order prevails both in Ojinaga and Presidio. Soldiers are doing police duty on both sides of the border and no liquor is allowed to be sold.

AUTHORITY STRENGTHENED.
MEXICO CITY, Dec. 12.—Gen. Huerta's authority as dictator of Mexico has been strengthened by extraordinary powers conferred upon him by the chamber of deputies which adjourned early Friday after a stormy session.
Huerta's power was made absolute during the recess which the chamber will take from next Monday until April 1.
The executive and executive branches of the government will be under the absolute domination of Huerta and he will have authority to change the 1914 budget at will.
Several of the deputies protested against the action of the chamber because of affront it gives to the U. S. government, but they were shouted down.
A committee was appointed to call upon Gen. Huerta at the national palace Friday and inform him of the action taken by the chamber.
Gen. Huerta is allowed to sell government property at his own discretion as the result of the privileges conferred upon him.
The chamber also approved the electoral law calling for another presidential election next July and granted a concession to a British group of capitalists to build a railroad from Ameca to Perto Pena on the west coast.

KIND SAMARITAN LANDS BEHIND BARS

L. C. Cliniczak played the part of a good samaritan Wednesday night and as a result spent the morning hours behind the bars at police station. Cliniczak found John Fox in a drunken condition in an alley in the rear of a Cofax av. saloon. He was helping the man to his feet and was about to take him home when an "officer-of-the-law" happened along and arrested Fox for being drunk. His benefactor tried to prevent the arrest, telling the officer that he would take Fox home. The officer was about to take him away when Cliniczak again tried to get the official to let him take the man home.
